

The town is settled on the Pesti Plain, at the boarder of the Gödöllő-Hillside, in the suburban area of the capital. The main attraction of the town is the roman-catholic church; in romantic style, a work of the famous architecture, Ybl Miklós. Further sights of Fót are the Károlyi Residence (Vörösmarty tér 2.), the Fáy vine-press house (at the foot of Somlyó Hill), Németh Kálmán's Memory House (Béke u. 31.).