

Dunakeszi and Vác are connected through the Danube and the railway as well. Significant changes happened in the life of the town when the railway traffic has been started.

A small neighbour town Alag, exists as a part of the town nowadays, is famous for its nice Roman style church from the XIII. century. The only one Hungarian racehorse training yard is situated here. Alag is very proud of his race horsing traditions.